In this course, senior care workers will learn what types of medications are the most common among the aging population, as well as why and how each of those medications should be taken.